Weekly Round Up

What a great week we have had! All children have been working very hard this week, settling back into school routines well. This week in English we began our new book: A Walk In London. The children have researched their favourite attractions in London, taken a virtual tour of the city and looked at the interesting vocabulary within the story.

In maths we have completed our mini quizzes on correspondence and interpreting data.

In the afternoons we have returned to our usual timetable, after a wonderful science week. We explored pitch in Science by playing our flutes to create low and high pitch sounds. In Music we learn the song 'Hand on the bridge' and we sang head, shoulders, knees and toes in our French lesson.

To end a wonderful week, we came in red or as a superhero to raise money for comic relief.

It has been a wonderful week- well done everyone.

We encourage you, should your child be feeling worries or anxious to have a look at Mrs Patmore's posts each Wednesday on School Story. As a school we are committed to your children's mental health and doing everything we can to support them. In Year 4, we are also working through wellbeing journal focused on having worries, being positive and understanding our emotions.

Website of the Week:

Immerse yourself in the London skyline with this virtual tour! You can click into key attractions in London.

Like standing on the stage of the Royal Albert Hall!

Coming up.....

Next week, we are going to be delving into our story planning in English. The children will plan and draft their first few paragraphs to their version of A Walk in London.

On Monday, it is also World Poetry Day! We have a wonderful day planned for all the children focused on exploring poetry and writing our own based on sustainability.

Hooked on books:

Mrs Hardy is reading this!

I love picture books!

Some of my favourite stories have hardly any words in them at all, because sometimes a picture really can say a thousand words.

The Bear and The Piano by David Litchfield tells the tale of a young bear and an old piano. The bears learns to play the piano and becomes world famous. Whilst that sounds like a great book on its own, this book is full of hidden meanings and messages!

Experience London and all you can see, from the top of the London Eye!

The Day the Crayons Quit by Drew Daywalt is simply hilarious. Who knew crayons could be so funny and have such large personalities! You must read this book if you like a good laugh!

Non Negotiables:

Join your class on Teams for registration if you are not at school.

Remember to upload/hand in work on Purple Mash or send to portfolios on dojo.

'Everybody, every day' - Reading with your child every day.

Practise times tables including the division facts. Use Times Tables Rock Stars or any other method to practice. Your practice is paying off! Keep in contact with us using Class Dojo. Have a good weekend.
